THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION ABOUT THE AUSTIN, TEXAS
EMPLOYMENT ORDINANCE IS INFORMATIONAL ONLY AND NOT INTENDED FOR USE AS PART OF THE EMPLOYMENT
APPLICATION¹

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO EMPLOYER REGARDING QUESTIONS ABOUT CRIMINAL HISTORY: Austin has a “ban the box” ordinance. An employer may not ask about an applicant’s criminal history or conduct a criminal background check until AFTER extending the conditional offer that is solely conditioned on the result of such check. It applies to any private employer that employs at least 15 individuals whose primary work location is in the City of Austin.

It is unlawful under this Austin ordinance for any covered employer to solicit criminal history information about an individual, or consider an individual’s criminal history, unless the employer has first made a conditional employment offer, which is a job offer that is conditioned solely on the employer’s evaluation of the individual’s criminal history.

Further, a covered employer cannot take “adverse action” against an individual because of an individual’s criminal history without first conducting an “individualized assessment.” The term “adverse action” includes a refusal to hire or promote, as well as revocation of a conditional offer of employment or promotion. Thus, the Ordinance affects both prospective and incumbent employees.

In conducting an individualized assessment, a covered employer must, at minimum, consider:

- The nature and gravity of any offenses in the individual’s criminal history;
- The length of time since the offense and completion of the sentence; and
- The nature and duties of the job for which the individual has applied.

The Ordinance expressly permits a covered employer to withdraw a conditional offer of employment for any lawful reason, including the determination that an individual is unsuitable based on an individualized assessment. (Credit to a Seyfarth Shaw alert).
